if there's a will there's a way!

Guided by nature's strange power, he weaves and weaves a nest so perfect in craftsmanship. The Baya weaver or as we know the Wadu Kurula builds his home with sheer determination, limitless patience and unswerving courage. It is his 'home sweet home' - a place of his own. Today in Sri Lanka it is building time. And everyone of us could now learn realistically to achieve that ideal - a home of our own. We at the Building Materials Corporation are with you all the way, serving you to make your dream home - a reality.

I know Victor Batnayska among the few Indian singers I personally enjoyed to. The maturity of his voice and the quality of his melodies are two qualities I admire in him. But above all I had to love an impressive dimension, a quality very rare among our singers. Victor Batnayska has a magnificent presence, which seems to have helped him to sing almost without musical baggage, more by reason of such as Victor's personality as to his voice.

Sometha Paris

Elements of western music have been weaving into Indian song ever since Ghazal lyrics. Some started singing in the late '50s. But I think it was only in the late '60s that techniques of western music came to be absorbed by local Composers and singers. Victor Batnayska reflects this trend. He is undoubtedly tutored in the Oriental tradition, but in his voice and in those delightful melodies he composes himself, there is a judicious account of both the oriental and western traditions. This, I think, accounts for his phenomenal popularity. The trend of contemporary western music is part of the world and these musicians who accept this fact become effective communicators to us. Victor Batnayska is one such singer/poet. I think we can not see his success here between South India and America. He is obviously popular in both, and also complex as American-VICTOR BATNAYASKA MAKES THE AVERAGE LISTENER FEEL HE IS A CONNOISSEUR.

Lester James Paris

The singer in the song? For me, it Victor Batnayska is it certainly the singer - the man beyond the song - the human quality of the man which the voice projects but often does not do full justice to the great and generous human being which is Victor. To me, more than or as much as his voice, I wish and will value the man. A voice that is precious is the artistry behind the voice.

D B Nihalingsha

Victor Batnayska has undoubtedly carved a special niche for himself in the Sri Lanka music world. Voice possesses a rich voice and a unique style and creativity of a caliber which definitely places him among the masters of our music. I hope that 'SA' goes on to a Million Performances!

Nedra Hester

I heard one of your concerts back in 1977 and was so impressed that I started to see you at your 'SA' concerts at the Esplanade Hall. This was the first Indian Musical Show that I had gone to.

What impressed me was the fact that you were one of the few Indian Artists who had acquired a 'SA' image, not you were, and you, as excellent song writer and a director during in your presentation.

This, in my opinion, is the reason that you have gathered such a large number of fans along the way.

Raj Seneviratne

It is wonderful to reflect on the many ways in which Victor Batnayska has enriched our musical life. His presence on the stage is a joy to all who witness it. His music is a gift to the world.
